INTEK Play-Based Estimates of Global Shale Gas Resources, Ultimate Recovery, Development Barriers, and Market Access for 21 Countries Now Available

Arlington VA. USA -- November 28, 2011

A compilation of global shale gas resources data and analysis prepared by INTEK, Inc. estimates that more than 17,000 trillion cubic feet of shale gas exists in 65 developing and emerging plays and basins in 21 countries around the world.

These countries include:

- Algeria
- Argentina
- Australia
- Austria
- Canada
- China
- Colombia
- Estonia
- France
- Germany
- India
- Latvia
- Lithuania
- Mexico
- Morocco
- Netherlands
- New Zealand
- Poland
- Sweden
- United Kingdom
- United States

The INTEK analysis estimates the potential ultimate recovery from each basin and play. INTEK's assessment also detailed the barriers to development for each resource, including economics, water availability, environmental, and policy constraints. It also examines the availability of pipeline access and other essential infrastructure to move produced gas to the market.

The analyses presented in INTEK's Global Shale Gas Resource Estimates and Market Access Report is based on data derived compiled from both public sources and private sources. It includes both leased and unleased acreage and includes information on the resource holdings of some 300 shale gas companies.

The entire report, the database, individual country reports, and supporting analytical services are available on a commercial basis.
